Answer questions from two options.
Section A: answer two questions.
Section B: answer one question.
Section C: answer one question.
- Follow the instructions on the front cover of the answer booklet. If you need additional answer paper, ask the invigilator for a continuation booklet.

INFORMATION

- The total mark for this paper is 60.
- The number of marks for each question or part question is shown in brackets [].

This document has 8 pages. Any blank pages are indicated.

Section A

You must answer two questions from this section.
Answer all the parts for the two questions you choose.

Psychology and abnormality

- 1 Three comments about electro-convulsive therapy (ECT):

'It was the best thing that my wife could have had at that time; a good decision by the doctors after drugs had failed.'

'It was a positive experience; worked well for my schizophrenia.'

'I was able to go home after five months of inpatient stay as a result of ECT, after years of unsuccessful psychological treatment.'

- (a) Outline the procedure of electro-convulsive therapy (ECT). [2]
- (b) (i) Outline one biochemical treatment for schizophrenia. [2]
- (ii) Give one advantage of this biochemical treatment for schizophrenia. [2]
- (c) Outline two psychological treatments for schizophrenia. [4]
- (d) Discuss the strengths and weaknesses of ECT as a treatment for schizophrenia. You should include a conclusion in your answer. [5]

Psychology and consumer behaviour

- 2 Newspaper headline: Your brain goes shopping.

You go shopping and you see a product. By the time you decided to buy it, some brain regions already knew what you were buying and how much it cost. These brain regions are the neural predictors of purchases, studied by Knutson et al. (2007).

- (a) Identify two brain regions Knutson et al. found to be predictors of purchases. [2]
- (b) Outline the novel 'SHOP' task used when each participant had their brain scanned. [4]
- (c) (i) Suggest one reason why the findings of this study can be generalised. [2]
- (ii) Suggest one reason why the findings of this study cannot be generalised. [2]
- (d) Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of using brain scans to gather data about consumer decision-making. You should include a conclusion in your answer. [5]

Fig. 3.1 An extract from a version of the UAB scale

- (a) Identify two categories included in the UAB scale, other than 'vocal complaints: verbal'. [2]
- (b) (i) Explain what makes the UAB scale in Fig. 3.1 a longitudinal measure. [2]
- (ii) Explain the usefulness of a longitudinal measure in relation to pain. [2]
- (c) Suggest two ways in which pain can be assessed using a self-report questionnaire. [4]
- (d) Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of pain measures that are observed independently of the person who is experiencing the pain. You should include a conclusion in your answer. [5]

Psychology and organisations

- 4 Heifetz (1997) proposes a 'modern' theory of adaptive leadership, and suggests that 'getting on the balcony' to see the whole organisation is more effective than seeing a specific part of one work process.

Fig. 4.1 'getting on the balcony'

- (a) Explain one principle from adaptive leadership, other than 'getting on the balcony'. [2]
- (b) (i) Explain what is meant by the reductionism versus holism debate. [2]
- (ii) Suggest how adaptive leadership shows holism rather than reductionism. [2]
- (c) Suggest two ways in which adaptive leadership differs from 'traditional' leadership. [4]
- (d) Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of adaptive leadership. You should include a conclusion in your answer. [5]

Section B

You must answer one question from this section.

Psychology and abnormality

- 5 Cognitive-behavioural therapy (CBT) can be used to treat obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD).
- (a) Design a study to test gender differences in effectiveness of CBT administered by telephone for OCD. [10]
- (b) Explain the psychological and methodological evidence on which your study is based. [8]

Psychology and consumer behaviour

- 6 There are several ways to close a sale, including reciprocity and authority.
- (a) Design a study to investigate which is the most successful way to close a sale when selling a computer. [10]
- (b) Explain the psychological and methodological evidence on which your study is based. [8]

Psychology and health

- 7 The style of a practitioner's clothing, the way they dress, can influence what patients think of them.
- (a) Design a study gathering qualitative data to investigate why patients prefer one practitioner style of dress to another. [10]
- (b) Explain the psychological and methodological evidence on which your study is based. [8]

Psychology and organisations

- 8 A machine in your factory has been sabotaged. You know who is responsible and want to find the reason for this unacceptable behaviour.
- (a) Design a study using an interview to investigate the reason for sabotaging the machine. [10]
- (b) Explain the psychological and methodological evidence on which your study is based. [8]

Section C

You must answer one question from this section.

Psychology and abnormality

- 9 'Even though Charles was just one child, Rapoport's case study of Charles' obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD) can be generalised to everyone.'

To what extent do you agree with this statement? Use examples of research you have studied to support your answer. [12]

Psychology and consumer behaviour

- 10 'The findings of experiments of consumer behaviour using eye-tracking have no value because they lack ecological validity.'

To what extent do you agree with this statement? Use examples of research you have studied to support your answer. [12]

Psychology and health

- 11 'If there is any doubt about making a correct diagnosis, a medical practitioner should always decide that an ill person is healthy.'

To what extent do you agree with this statement? Use examples of research you have studied to support your answer. [12]

Psychology and organisations

- 12 'Organisational commitment can be measured simply by looking at attendance and absenteeism.'

To what extent do you agree with this statement? Use examples of research you have studied to support your answer. [12]
